The whole flower CBD tincture contains a single-origin cannabidiol formula grown in Colorado. The extract is free of GMO's and contains essential fatty acids vital to a dog's healthy diet, according to the company in a release. The product contains a certificate analysis which can be viewed on the Loki Naturals website.

"It was important for us to have treats for treating occasions but also a tincture for more flexibility. The addition of the tincture helps with dogs that are using CBD as a daily part of their health plan, or for dogs that need a special dose. The best part is that it can even be mixed in with your pets food," said Kelly Lund, Loki's Dad.

Shares of Next Green Wave were at C$0.56 on Thursday.
