One World Lithium taps water resources firm ahead of upcoming drill program

One World Lithium Inc (CSE:OWLI) (OTCMKTS:OWRDF) announced Thursday that it will work with a water resources consulting firm with extensive experience in South America to prepare for its next round of drilling at the Salar del Diablo lithium brine project in Mexico.

The Vancouver-based company said it had engaged the services of Montgomery and Associates, a consulting firm that has worked with major lithium companies such as SQM (NYSE:SQM), Millennial Lithium Corp (CVE:ML) and Lithium Americas Corp (TSE:LAC).

Montgomery and Associates will consult with OWL to plan an upcoming drill program targeting depths of 500 metres at the project.

Headquartered in Arizona, the firm has been working in South America since 1984, and has offices in Salta, Argentina, Santiago, Chile and Lima, Peru.

"With our second phase of drilling planned to begin this fall, we are pleased to have Montgomery and Associates as consultants," said Doug Fulcher, OWL's CEO.

Montgomery and Associates has successfully assisted in completing exploration programs including drilling lithium brine projects in Argentina and Chile.

OWL is advancing Salar del Diablo, a large 103,000-hectare lithium brine project in the State of Baja California, Mexico. The company plans to resume its 4,250-foot drilling program in the fall of 2019.
