The Green Organic Dutchman Holdings Ltd (TSE:TGOD) (OTCMKTS:TGODF) on Friday unveiled a new strategic plan, including a series of actions to reduce the cannabis company's financing requirements while maintaining its path to profitability. These actions will result in increased agility, lower capital requirements and optimal production capacity to serve the organic segment, the Ontario-based company said. "These actions are logical next steps in TGOD's road to profitability," said CEO Brian Athaide. "While we are committed to - and our strategy continues to leverage - our unparalleled scale as an organic producer as well as our international assets, we have identified areas where our scale would not provide for meaningful returns in the near term given the slower pace of legal market conversion."

The numbers significantly beat Mackie's expectations of C$13.3 million in revenue and C$0.01 per share. Valens' profit of C$0.05 per share marked a big turnaround for the company from when it suffered a loss of $0.10 per share in the second quarter of 2019. Mackie analysts Greg McLeish and Jack Keating wrote that the cannabis firm had "strong sales momentum" going into the back half of the year.

Roth Capital has repeated a 'Buy' on precious metals producer Gold Resource Corporation (NYSEAMERICAN:GORO) after its third-quarter output beat the broker's estimates, mainly driven by the quicker-than-expected ramp-up at its Nevada mine. "We note that commercial production was declared at Isabella Pearl on October 7, 2019, and the ensuing ramp up in production was above our expectations. Further, the company's Mexico Unit produced 7,362 ounces of gold 473,810 ounces of silver during 3Q19, which beat both our gold and silver estimates of 7,261 and 418,236 ounces," added the analyst.
