NA Proactive news snapshot: CUI Global, Maxtech Ventures, Gevo, RYAH Medtech UPDATE ...

CUI Global Inc (NASDAQ:CUI) reported strong results from its fiscal third quarter, which saw the energy company execute on its transformational strategy to divest non-core assets. In late September the Oregon-based company announced plans to sell its electromechanical business to a private entity. The sale of the electromechanical business coupled with new CEO Jim O'Neil is part of the company's strategy to reshape the company into a diversified energy infrastructure services provider to the North American energy market through aggressive acquisitions.

Maxtech Ventures Inc (CSE:MVT) (OTCMKTS:MTEHF) told investors it has hired Red Lake gold mining district 'trailblazer' James Rogers as its senior vice president of exploration. Rogers, a geologist with 40 years' experience, will be responsible for all exploration activities, starting immediately at its Panama Lake project, Maxtech said. Starting out in 1980, he spent almost 30 years in the Red Lake Gold mining camp in roles as chief geologist, exploration manager and as president of a junior explorer.

Gevo Inc (NASDAQ:GEVO) on Tuesday reported that it ended the third quarter with cash and cash equivalents of $20.9 million. The renewable fuels and chemicals manufacturer also said it has about 6-7 million gallons per year (MGPY) of offtake under contract out of its planned minimum sized 10MGPY hydrocarbon plant, up from about 5MGPY. "We continued to make progress on our plans," said CEO Dr Patrick Gruber in a statement. "We have over 60MGPY of jet fuel and isooctane in contract negotiation, and well over 120MGPY in total under discussion. We only need to secure 5MGPY more to achieve our threshold offtake of 10MGPY which should allow us to be able to build a larger plant with acceptable economies of scale."

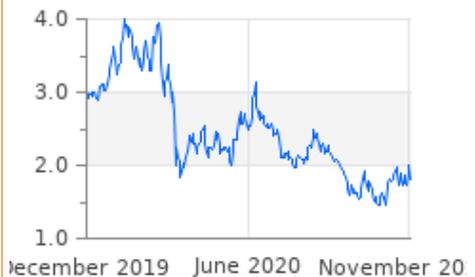

Marrone Bio Innovations Inc (NASDAQ:MBII) posted third-quarter results after the bell Tuesday that saw revenue jump 28% year-over-year on the back of the company's specialty crop and cultivated garden businesses. The bioprotection and plant health company reported revenue of $7 million for the three months ended September 30, up from $5.4 million a year earlier -- beating Street estimates of $6.95 million. Marrone attributed the growth to a strong demand in the grapes, tomatoes, rice, hops, tree nuts and fruits markets in the US. On top of that, its cultivated garden business did well, thanks in part to sales to hemp producers.

RYAH Medtech Inc has released an analytics report that takes a closer look at how men use medical cannabis. The report, which featured survey feedback from 35,069 men over 22 months, found that nearly 78% of male patients use medical cannabis on a daily or near-daily basis. Compared with women, which the company released a report on two weeks ago, men are more likely to begin using medical cannabis earlier in life. The top conditions men use medical cannabis to treat — anxiety, stress, depression and pain — mirror those of women, with the addition for men of ADHD/ADD.

Bragg Gaming Group (CVE:BRAG) (OTCMKTS:BRGGF) clocked up substantial third quarter revenue of C$10 million, a 13% jump in sequential revenue growth over the second quarter. The company also posted a gross profit of C$4.3 million, underlying earnings (EBITDA) of C$0.2 million and a C$0.2 million loss from operations. In a statement accompanying the gaming company's latest numbers, CEO Dominic Mansour said: "We've made significant progress this quarter, with our focus on B2B with ORYX driving 30% revenue growth compared to the third quarter in 2018. This resulted in a significant improvement in ORYX's gross profit and in-turn drove ORYX EBITDA (earnings before interest, tax, depreciation and amortization) to grow by over 300% to C$1.2 million." The gaming company boss said 14 operators are scheduled to complete integrations on ORYX Hub in the latter half of the year.

Marrone Bio Innovations Inc (NASDAQ:MBII) has announced positive results from 2019 field trials for its novel bioherbicide, known as MBI-015. The field tests using commercial rates for the company's bioherbicide demonstrated control of the Palmer amaranth weed approaching that of a current post-emergent chemical herbicide, the firm said in a statement. Marrone Bio noted that across multiple trial locations using uniform protocols, control of Palmer amaranth was evaluated at three stages of growth, 7-to-10 days after MBI-015 was applied. Percentage-wise, control ranged from the mid-70s to the high-80s. The weed can lead to dramatic yield losses in crops such as corn and soybean.

Point Loma Resources Ltd (CVE:PLX) is delineating a second well and expanding its production facilities around the Rex oil play in Alberta, the company told investors on Tuesday. The firm's partner Salt Bush Energy Ltd is drilling a second farm-out well under the Wizard Lake farmout agreement in order to spud the existing HZ 13-4-48-27W4 well by mid-November. In addition, Point Loma is expanding its production facilities to handle up to 5,000 barrels per day of fluid and 5 million cubic feet per day of natural gas to allow for full production of the existing two wells, the second farmout well and any future development.

eWellness Healthcare Corporation (OTCMKTS:EWLL), the pioneer in physical therapy telehealth treatments, announced Tuesday that it is developing a new rheumatoid arthritis treatment platform called RA360. In a statement, the Culver City, California-based company, said the new platform is expected to be available in the first quarter of 2020. Rheumatoid arthritis and related autoimmune disorders are the leading cause of illness and disability in the US. The company said its RA 360 solution will support employees to reduce or maintain their current level of drug use.

PowerOre Inc (CVE:PORE) has wrapped up an ambitious 3D modeling program of the underground workings at the Perry mine in Quebec. The Toronto-based exploration firm created a block model that will allow the company to better evaluate the mineralization within the historic mine complex, which also includes the former producing Springer mine. The company said it now has block models for each of the Perry and Springer mines on the Opemiska copper mine complex.
